THREE COAL RATES.
The ngitation of the coal rate question here shows that the Norfolk and Western has three rates, which are $1.25, $1.60 and $1.80 a ton. All the different rates are made from the same mine to the same point on Tidewater. The freight rate of $1.25 per ton is made to Lambert's Point upon coal shipped thence by sea to New England ports. The rate of $1.00 per ton is made for coal used by Norfolk tug men and manufacturing plants, while the rate of $1.80 per ton is made upon coal which is sold to householders and other retail consumers in Norfolk.

to Lieutenant Charles Burnett, Fifteenth United States cavalry, occurred at this garrison last evening at $ o'clock, and was the social event of the season. Miss Cameron is the daughter of the late General Francis Hawks and Mrs. Cameron, of North Carolina and Virginia. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Herbert A. Shipman, chaplain at the West Point Milltary Academy, assisted by Chaplain W. W. Brander, Fifteenth cavalry, a resident of Richmond, Va. The wedding took place in the new gymmasium, which was tastfully decorated with flags, and a very beautiful chancel was formed by palms and white Easter lilles in a semi-circle. The allar was artistically lighted with many candelabra, and held two large vases of lilles, and the chancel rail was covered entirely with the same dowers, interwoven with Southern smilax. Just above the altar were draped the national standard and the regimental colors of the Fifteenth cavalry. During the arrival of the guests the Fifteenth cavalry band dispersed soft music from some hidden hower in the hall above. Trumpets announced the coming of the bridal party, which entered to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march. The ushers, brother officers of the groom, Lieutenants Clifton Norton, Victor Foster, Wiley P. Mangun, Milton G. Holliday, Arthur J. Lynch and Scott Baker, in full dress uniform, led the way, followed by two pretly little flower girls, Misses Floy Medman gun, Milton G. Holliday, Arthur J. Lynch and Scott Baker, in full dress uniform, led the way, followed by two pretty little flower girls, Misses Floy Hodman Barnhardt and Dorothy Walker, who carried basket trays of rosebuds. They were followed by the bridesmaids. Misses Rutsrine and Isabel Gresham, Grace Russell and Edith Hoyle, carrying Immense bouquets of yellow daffodis—the cavalry color. They were gowned in dainty white lace-trimmed organdles. Miss Jean Cameron, the maid of honor, wearing a dress of silk mull and carrying a large bunch of spring violets, immediately preceded the bride, who entered on the arm of her brother, Lieutenant Francis Cameron, Fifteenth United States cavalry, and was met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Lieutenant Samuel W. Robertson, Fifteenth United States cavalry, both in full dress uniform. Lieutenant Burnett wore the handsome gold sabre presented to him in the Philippines by the members of Troop C, Fifteenth cavalry, with whom he served.

Cut Cake With Saber.

The ceremony was the beautiful ritual of the Episcopal Church, and at its conclusion the bridal party left the chancel to the happy strains of Menuelssohn's wedding march. The company then repaired to the large hall above, where supper was served, and the bride followed the time-honored custom in the army of cutting the wedding cake with the groom's sabre, and as the evening waned many toasts were drunk to the happiness of the newly-wedded couple.

The bride's dress was very ocautiful, being of a lustrous white sike-the gift of her brother, Duncan Haywood Cameron, of Canton, China, and sne' wore a veil which enveloped her entire figure and fell in graceful folds to the end of her train. Her bouquet was illies of the valley, and a spray of orange biossoms was caught in the veil on her hair.

Both Lieutennant and Mrs. Burnett are very popular in the Fifteenth cavalry, and they will be granted every concession so that no change can be made to take them from the garrison. They were the recipients of many handsome gits. The wedding trip has been postponed a few weeks, owing to the recent illness of the bride. In April they will vistt New York and West Point, where the Lieutenant graduated in the class of 100.
